

"wait! why cross that bridge and take the risk of getting captured if you can always build a new bridge?" "Lets do it!" The village cheered. When the troll heard this, his heart burned to ashes if he had a heart.

"I know some people won't go. This is the perfect place for cars." He said to himself, then chuckled so loudly his servants and people above the bridge froze.

make paragraphs