You should always listen to your teacher.

Have you ever thought about how your teacher feels when you don't listen to him or her? Well she or he probably feels pretty disrespected. Therefore, you should always listen to your teacher. If you don't, you will not learn anything, it's disrespectful to your teacher, and you will miss something interesting.

The first reason you should always listen to your teacher is because if you don't it's disrespectful to your teacher. For example, a fourth grade teacher at PS 321 elementary school, said a lot of the time she asks someone to stop playing with something, or stop talking when they're not supposed to, and they don't stop! "It's so insulting!" she says. Further more, one time my third grade class and I, were sitting at our tables. Our teacher was reading us a book about the Yanomani people in the Amazon rainforest. The boy next to me was not paying.

attention. My teacher noticed and said "Please pay attention," I thought she was mad, but I looked at her and noticed that she looked hurt and disrespectful. Think about it, you would feel pretty disrespectful if someone was not listening to you, right? This shows that when you don't listen to your teacher, it is disrespectful to them.

Another reason you should always listen to your teacher is because if you don't you might miss something interesting. For example, Nadia Gersholowitz told me that she missed her teacher saying that saying that an anconda lives on the forest floor, and she was studying an anconda! "I'm so sorry I missed it," she says. Also, 12 out of 12 people said that they missed something interesting because they were not listening to their teacher. This shows that if you don't listen to your teacher you might miss something interesting.

A last reason you should always listen to your teacher is because if you don't you will not learn anything and you come to school to learn. for example, 4 out of 5 people said that they were not listening to their teacher, so they did not learn anything. To add on, picture this, I was sitting on the rug in second grade, and a girl beside me was daydreaming. We were about to go to our seats to have an assessment on what we just learned. When we got to our seats the girl looked so clueless, because she was not listening to her teacher. This shows that if you don't listen to your teacher, you will not learn anything.

As you can see, you should always listen to your teacher. If you don't, then you will not learn anything, you might miss something interesting, and it's disrespectful to your teacher.
