People say that the British started a story. This story was about an American Boy shot in Anti-British Demonstration. It had might been the begining of the Boston Massacre. The British knew most Americans did not want to follow British laws. So king George the III send British solders to Boston to scare the Americans.

One morning in Massachusetts March 5, 1770 there was a crowd of angry Americans surrounding a house of Ebenezer Richardson who had sided with the British. The more American threw a rock. The rock had landed into his nose and hit his wife then Ebenezer Richardson put out his musket and shot a 11 year old boy. Millions of people went to his funeral. This is why people think that the British started it because he killed a 11 year old boy.

CONCLUSION

who ever started the Boston Massacre was important because it was very violent. Another reason why it was important for someone to start the Boston Massacre was it was dangerous for people outside for people cause you don't want to get killed.

My last reason why it was important for someone to start the Boston Massacre was you don't want to start a fight cause sometimes when you start a fight it could get bigger.
