

TEACHER DEMONSTRATION WRITING

SESSION 18 CONFERRING

Text Annotation:

The British soldiers who fired were just following orders. They were scared and confused and didn't know what else to do.

Free Writing:

I think everyone blames these soldiers for killing innocent people, but the truth is they wouldn't have killed anyone if there had never been a fight. And the ones who started the fight were the young men who were throwing sticks and snowballs at the soldiers. Both sides were angry at each other, and in many ways both sides were to blame. So that makes me think that maybe the patriots were just as much at fault for those people dying as the British soldiers were.
